Message from the President

Our calling and our promise

Welcome to the first edition of Today's Pioneer. Our new magazine is just one of the many improvements on our campus so we can better meet our mission to keep you informed about your College.

As we begin a new era at Glenville State College, we have focused on our calling and the promise we have made to the people of West Virginia. This calling and our promise can be summed up in four words: Tradition, Innovation, Leadership and Community. Today, we carry on a tradition started some 128 years ago to serve the people of central West Virginia. We meet that responsibility through our attention to high-quality teaching and ensuring that our students are prepared for the future. Innovations are abundant at Glenville State College. We were among the first to extend our campus via live, interactive distance education and Internet courses. At GSC we recognize that leadership is a responsibility for everyone on campus. Preparing students so they may assume leadership roles in their communities means that we must exemplify responsible leadership at all levels. Community is our calling and promise to serve as a beacon for how a campus must and should work together. We are a campus where we speak, listen and learn carefully and respectfully, and where we value and appreciate all members of our College community.

I have learned a great deal about GSC. It is a simple fact that we have a great College dedicated to teaching excellence. It is also a simple fact that I need your continued help to keep us vibrant. I hope you will help us carry on the calling and promise of Glenville State College by encouraging your children and grandchildren to attend your alma mater and by remembering us with your gifts and contributions.

Today's Pioneer has been the hard work of Mr. Ed Hamrick, Vice President for

Please let me know what you think and, as always, I welcome ideas on how we can improve the magazine to meet your needs.

With the hope that our new magazine helps you maintain your lifelong connection to Glenville State College, I remain,

Very truly yours,

$ 1.1 Million To Help Glenville Students

Glenville State College students will receive a big boost in the future in the form of scholarship assistance, due to the generosity of the late Lorena Hefner of Charleston.

Lorena Hefner was born September 3, 1908 at Burnsville, a daughter of the late W. C. Hefner and Mary Hamilton Hefner. One of eleven children, she grew up on the family farm and graduated in 1925 from Burnsville High School, where she was vice president of her class and earned the nickname "Flash" for her determined play on the women's basketball team. Lorena's parents placed a strong emphasis on education, encouraging her to continue her schooling at Glenville College.

She graduated from college in 1941, beginning her teaching career in Braxton County at the Bragg Run School. Her first year she traveled four miles to and from the one room schoolhouse by horseback. After teaching seven years of elementary school, Lorena took a business course and, along with three partners, formed the Auto & Industrial Supply Company, where she served as Secretary/Treasurer. In 1976, the business was sold and she retired. She was a member of the Burnsville United Methodist Church and the Pilot Club of Charleston.

According to her only surviving sibling, Margery Hefner of Charleston, her camera shy sister had a caring and generous personality. "She never forgot her roots or where she came from in Braxton County," said Hefner.

"The Hefner scholarship will go to Braxton County students attending Glenville State College," said Ed Hamrick, vice president for college advancement. "We are grateful to Ms. Hefner for remembering her college alma mater. Her benevolence will have a tremendous impact on Glenville State College and central West Virginia," said Hamrick. ♦

Teacher Education Division Receives Continuing National Professional Accreditation

Studies show that teacher quality is the most important factor in K-12 student achievement. But how do we know that our children's teachers enter the classroom ready to help them learn? Professional accreditation is one way to ensure West Virginians that state schools of education are graduating well-qualified teachers ready for today's classrooms.

Glenville State College's Division of Education has proven its commitment to producing quality teachers by recently achieving continuing accreditation under the performance-oriented standards of the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education. Of approximately 1,500 teacher education programs nationwide, only 501 institutions have earned NCATE accreditation by passing rigorous standards which emphasize teacher performance. Every five years accredited schools are re-examined by an NCATE team to continue their accreditation.

GSC's Division of Education has maintained NCATE accreditation since 1954 and is approved by the West Virginia Board of Education and the West Virginia Board of Directors.

"Satisfaction with the quality of Glenville State College graduates as beginning teachers was consistently voiced by employers and verified by the high rate of employment of graduates," NCATE examiners noted. At GSC "students expressed 'every person on faculty worked to see we got the best.'" GSC's success in instructional technology was also noted, "Technology is infused consistently throughout the programs, including current applications of Internet resources, computer-based media presentations, and educational software programs for the classroom." The report stated that GSC's Division of Education's "commitment to the profession and reputation of quality teacher preparation touches into every county of West Virginia."

In a congratulatory message to the College, President Powell noted that the vote to continue accreditation "is a particularly impressive accomplishment for our campus. Since our last review, NCATE standards were significantly modified to be more rigorous and involved more areas of review. We successfully passed all criteria." ♦

Curtis Elam Scholarships Established At Glenville State

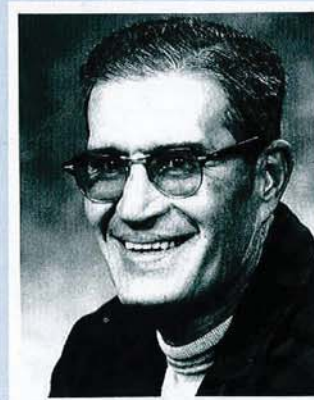

The late Curtis Elam '49 has gifted over $175,000 to GSC to create two very special endowments. The Curtis Elam Faculty Scholars Program will be established as a tribute to the faculty of Glenville State College and in recognition of the help and guidance they provided to him in obtaining his undergraduate degree.

The Curtis Elam Scholarship Program for College Students with Disabilities will also be established to assist GSC students with disabilities by funding special support services for them. This scholarship fund serves as a tribute to Elam's lifetime career in teaching and helping young people with learning disabilities.

Elam's early years in life were not easy. A native of Oklahoma, he lived in an orphanage on an Indian reservation for six years and later attended a government school there. Overcoming many hardships, Elam found a home at Glenville State College where he excelled as a football player and earned a degree. After graduation, Elam devoted his entire life to teaching and child advocacy.

When Elam retired from the Prince William County Public School System after 31 years of service, he was praised for his commitment to being a child advocate and for bringing hope to hundreds of children under his care and tutelage. That lifetime commitment to educational excellence will continue through the establishment of these two endowments.

"Curtis Elam's life experiences provided him with the skills and empathy to have a positive impact upon all those he came into contact with during his teaching career," said President Powell. "We are grateful for this significant gift which will preserve Mr. Elam's memory and allow his work to carry on." ♦

Vannoy Scholarship Established

A new endowed scholarship has been established with the Foundation to honor the late Herman W. Vannoy. Vannoy was born in Tanner and educated in public school. He graduated from Harrisville High School in 1934 where he received an athletic scholarship to play football at Glenville State College from 1934 to 1936.

After success on the gridiron as a Pioneer, Vannoy moved to Washington, D.C., and began as a lineman for the Chesapeake & Potomac (C&P) Telephone Company. Van, as he was known, spent four years during World War II working in communications in the White House and in construction of the Pentagon, which took one year to build. His dedication led him to promotions and management positions with C&P. After retiring in 1973 with 35 years of service, Van and his wife Virginia traveled throughout the United States and Canada, visiting nearly every one of the contiguous states.

Van always returned to West Virginia, as vacationing at many of the state parks became a tradition for the family. In 1963 Van purchased 22 acres outside of Moorefield, and with his wife and two sons built his retirement home. Growing up, Vannoy had an affection for the outdoors and took pride in his riding and hunting ability. He received much satisfaction from his vegetable garden and his time spent working on his property in Moorefield.

Van and his wife Virginia were married in 1940 and celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in 1990. His wife and sons, Robert and Donald, currently live in Virginia. They established this scholarship in memory of Van and to reward students who demonstrate not only athletic promise, but strong academic performance.

President Powell expressed gratitude on behalf of the College. "We very much appreciate this gift from the Vannoy family and recognize the significant impact it will have for future GSC students. ♦

Scholarship Established In Honor Of Emma Gale Reynolds Hedrick

A significant new scholarship endowment has been established with the Foundation to assist students who plan to pursue teaching careers in elementary education. The scholarship will be funded with a $100,000 gift from Mr. Lenzie J. Hedrick in memory of his late first wife, Emma Gale. Emma Gale Reynolds Hedrick was a 1954 honors graduate of GSC, majoring in elementary education. She taught for a number of years in the West Virginia school system at Spruce, Brady, Keiffer, Slaty Fork, and Crosslanes. She also taught in Illinois at Franklin Park. Emma Gale tragically lost her life in an teaching is just a job, for her is was a dedication and a calling. It was her trust, love, encouragement and inspiration that influenced and shaped so much of my adult life and the lives of others. So it is fitting and our prayer that what we do here will permanently honor her memory and continue in perpetuity her lifetime commitment to education."

President Powell accepted the gift from Mr. Hedrick, noting the importance to future GSC students. "We are grateful to Lenzie and Florence Hedrick for making this day possible. Because of them, the lives of hundreds of future teachers

Scholarly Clubs Help Focus Student Projects

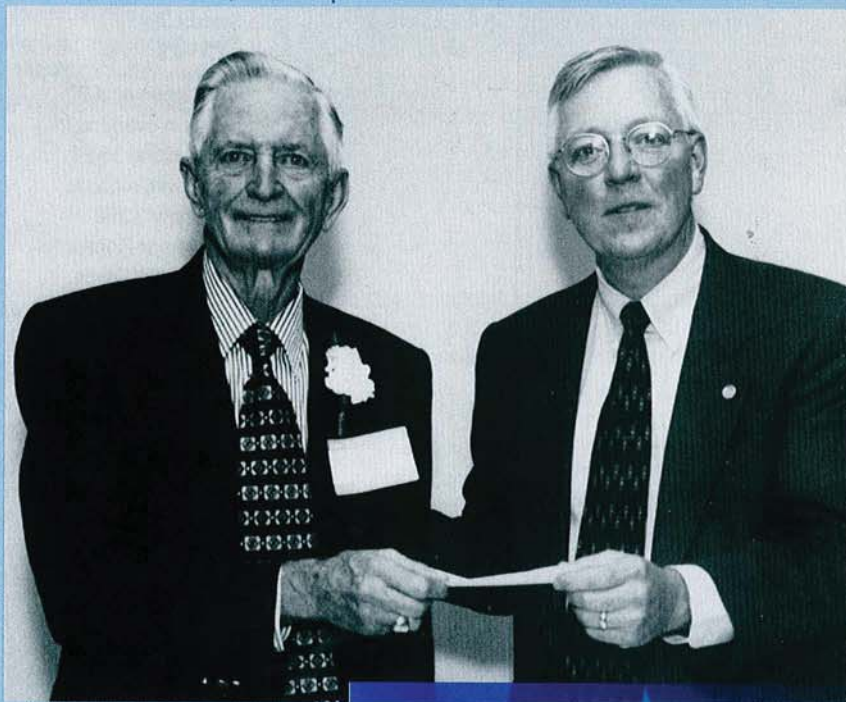

Much student interest and success is stimulated and focused through two scholarly clubs active within the Division of Science and Mathematics—the American Chemical Society and Chi Beta Phi.

Glenville State College is fortunate to have a very active student chapter of the American Chemical Society. They were recognized at a National American Chemical Society meeting for their work.

The Alpha Iota Chapter of Chi Beta Phi, a mathematics and science honorarium, won the national award for outstanding chapter in 1997 and 1998. Also in 1998, Alpha Iota hosted the National Chi Beta Phi Conference here at Glenville and that year mathematics professor Paul Peck, the group's advisor, won the National Outstanding Advisor Award. GSC student BJ Woods '00 won the National Most Active Member Award this past November.

Alpha Iota Chapter of Chi Beta Phi also takes on community projects including an Easter Egg Hunt that takes place on the grounds of the College every spring as well as participating with Worldwide AIDS Day by hosting speakers. This year the chapter will have a section of the AIDS Remembrance Quilt brought to Glenville for display. ♦ automobile accident in 1957. To honor her memory and to help other young people, Mr. Hedrick lovingly established this scholarship.

This fall a luncheon was held on campus to celebrate Mr. Hedrick's gift to the College. In an inspiring and heartfelt speech, Mr. Hedrick looked back on Emma Gale's short life. "She had a passion for education, both of self and for others. For so many and thousands of their students will benefit."

To be eligible to receive this scholarship, applicants must be upperclass education majors who have the support of at least three GSC faculty members and a 3.0 grade point average. ♦

Pioneer Football 99

A season highlighted by two exciting home victories on each end of the schedule, Glenville State's 1999 football campaign can only be described as a roller coaster ride. At the beginning of the season, Glenville State triumphed over California, Pa., and the season finale was a win over West Liberty. During the season, the Pioneers were the only WVIAC team to even remotely threaten conference champion Shepherd College, who defeated GSC, 22-17 at Pioneer Stadium. The Ram's next closest game was 32 points. Throughout the season, the Pioneers played and behaved well, finishing the 1999 football campaign with five wins and six losses.

Two GSC players earned first team All-WVIAC honors, freshman tailback Thaddeus Hampton with 925 rushing yards and senior offensive lineman Mike Frank. Second team all-conference choices included senior defensive end Jeremiah Witherspoon, junior linebacker Blake Tasker and sophomore defensive back Marcus Wade.

Season Summary

Glenville State - 35
California, PA - 28

Hampton broke loose on a 20 yard scoring run in overtime to lift GSC to a nail-biting 35-28 season opening win, much to the delight of nearly 3,300 screaming patrons at Pioneer Stadium. Quarterback Jayce Goree was 15-of-27 through the airways for 264 yards and two touchdowns, a performance that earned him the WVIAC Offensive Player of the Week honors.

Host Edinboro scored the first three times they had the ball, then staved off a furious Pioneer rally to hold on for a 29-20 victory.

East Stroudsburg, PA - 38
Glenville State - 34

East Stroudsburg tailback Stewart Ford scored on a 22 yard run with one second remaining to hand visiting GSC a crushing 38-34 defeat.

Glenville State - 7
St. Joseph's, IN - 3

Backup tailback Eric Tate scored the game's lone touchdown in the third quarter. Mike Cheatham and Nolan Clayton spearheaded a splendid Glenville defensive effort which limited the Pumas to just five pass completions.

Glenville State - 17
West Virginia Wesleyan - 7

Sophomore quarterback Jack Mental came off the bench in the second half to engineer the go-ahead scoring drive. Defensive back Jerald Brown picked off three Wesleyan passes.

Top Student Athletes

Robbie Buffington and Cheryl Stout McHugh were recognized during the Homecoming football game as the top student athletes in the 1999 graduating class.

Buffington, son of Barry and Cindy Buffington of Bridgeport, was bestowed the Frank Montrose Award as the school's top male student athlete. An all-conference punter, Buffington, an

McHugh, daughter of Roger and Teresa Stout of Parkersburg, received the Clarissa Williams Award as the school's top female student athlete. A sports management program graduate, she is married to former GSC athlete Pat McHugh and is employed as a supervisor at the St. Mary's Physical Therapy and Fitness Center. As a student, she was a two-time All-WVIAC performer in volleyball. ♦

Janet James Bailey Joins United States Olympic Committee

Janet James Bailey, senior women's administrator of the athletic department, is currently serving as a crew chief for United States Olympic Committee drug-testing clinics. In this role, she is overseeing random drug testing for U.S. athletes aspiring to compete in both the 2000 Summer Olympics in Sydney, Australia, and in the 2002 Winter Games in Salt Lake City. During the past several months, Bailey has been involved in drug testing sessions in Colorado Springs, Memphis, and New Orleans. Her next assignment is in Salt Lake City. Athlete groups she has tested include bob sledders, track and field participants, boxers, and divers.

"Being a part of the preparation for an international sporting event is a wonderful opportunity for anyone in the athletic realm," said Bailey. ♦

Hiener Makes Golf History At GSC

Freshman Ben Hiener made Glenville State College sports history last May by earning an individual berth in the NCAA Division II golf championships held in Valdosta, Ga.

Hiener, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hiener of Vincent, Ohio, earned the NCAA trip by shooting the low score (220) at the Division II Northern Regional Championships. At the national championships, Hiener, a pre-med major, shot rounds of 80, 79, 73 and 80, for 71st place.

Glenville State's golf team sports a proud heritage with 12 WVIAC championships to its credit dating back to the 1970s. ♦

Athletes Excel in Academics

Forty-eight Glenville State College student athletes have been awarded academic honors for the fall 1999 semester. These students, representing nearly one-third of the students in GSC athletic programs, achieved a 3.50-4.00 GPA to be named to the President's List or achieved a 3.00-3.49 GPA to be named to the Director's List. Four of ten athletic teams, Men's Basketball, Women's Basketball, Golf, and Volleyball, went so far as to score team GPAs of 3.0 or higher.

"These honor students epitomize the true meaning of the words student athlete," said Tim Carney, director of intercollegiate athletics and chair of the Division of Physical Education. "Our athletes are excelling both on the field and in the classroom."

The students from West Virginia named to the President's List were Lewesla McClain, Women's Track, Sand Fork; Kelly Osborn, Women's Basketball, Sand Fork; John Monroe, Golf, Burnsville; Sadie Lockard, Cheerleading, Weston; Carol Tenney, Cheerleading, Weston; Chrissy Richards, Women's Basketball, Jane

Lew; Sabrina Stout, Women's Basketball, Weston; Matt Cottrill, Cheerleading, Letart; Sarah Crowell, Volleyball, Martinsburg; Denise Mong, Volleyball, Martinsburg; Tom Ewing, Men's Basketball, Hico; Tim Murray, Men's Basketball, Elizabeth; Chad Tingler, Men's Basketball, Smithville; Jacob Tolley, Men's Basketball, Sutton; Rebecca Dzierzanski, Volleyball, Ravenswood; Joey Gossett, Golf, Ripley.

Student athletes named to the President's List from outside West Virginia included Samantha Williams, Women's Basketball, Findlay, Ohio; Brandon Keeney, Football, Proctorville, Ohio; Danny Leslie, Football, Marietta, Ohio; Andy Liable, Men's Basketball, Hohenrainweg, Germany.

The students named to the Director's List from West Virginia were Adrienne Fitch, Women's Track, Barboursville; Kristy Howard, Women's Track, Mabie; Josalynn Hall, Cheerleading, Rainelle; Tiffany Linville, Cheerleading, Lumberport; Stephanie Williams, Cheerleading, Williamstown; Abbie Burge, Volleyball, Mineral Wells; Brooke Ferguson, Volleyball, Student athletes from outside West Virginia named to the Director's List include Tara Rutherford, Women's Basketball, Rockbridge, Ohio; Leah Whitley, Women's Basketball, Frenchburg, Ky.; Emmy Yoho, Women's Basketball, Marietta, Ohio; Crystal Affolter, Volleyball, Stoutsville, Ohio; Josh Foster, Men's Basketball, Roanoke, Va.; Ben Hiener, Golf, Vincent, Ohio; Lance Linden, Football, Hubbard, Ohio; Eric Oltman, Football, Hubbard, Ohio; Jeremiah Witherspoon, Football, Trenton, N.J.; Louis Vega, Football, Bronx, N.Y.; Heath Pattison, Men's Track, Cambridge, Ohio. ♦

GSC Athletes Travel Abroad

David Davis was part of a nine member WVIAC men's all-star basketball squad that played five games in August in Caracas, Venezuela against professional and semi-professional teams. The WVIAC stars went 3 - 2. Davis, a 6'4" senior from Mount Vernon, N.Y., averaged seven points and seven rebounds per game during the tour. Following the competition, players had the opportunity to rest and relax locally, off the coast of Venezuela on Margarita Island.

Tammy Spence was part of a combined WVIAC/Pennsylvania State Athletic Conference basketball squad which played three all-star games in Sweden. Because of the size of the squad—13 players—playing time was limited. Spence, however, did pull down 10 rebounds in one game. The WVIAC/PSAC team went 2 - 1. During their time off court, Spence and her teammates had the opportunity to visit both Sweden and Denmark. ♦

Paul Shaffner Named Football Head Coach

President Powell recently introduced Paul Shaffner, the former defensive coordinator and assistant coach for 12 years at Lafayette College in Easton, Pa., as GSC's new head football coach.

"Coach Shaffner brings a wealth of experience in college football and his leadership skills will help us continue our great tradition as a winning team, dedicated to excellence on the field and in the classroom," said Powell.

Shaffner was an assistant coach at Penn State when they won the 1986 National Championship and won the 1987 Fiesta Bowl. As defensive coordinator at Lafayette, Shaffner helped the Leopards win three Patriot League championships and his teams have been consistently top rated in defensive achievements, such as rushing defense, pass efficiency defense and take away defense.

Shaffner earned both a bachelor of science and a master's in physical education from Ithaca College in New York where he played on the 1979 championship and 1980 Lambert Bowl winning teams.

"Championship teams are built on integrity," said Shaffner. "I believe in creating an environment in which education is valued and football is an extension of our learning experiences." ◆

No Regrets

by Lisa Hayes '94

So many of us look back on college life and entertain thoughts of how we would do things differently if faced with that opportunity again today. How many times have we heard, "If I knew then what I know now?"

Not so with Mike Rust '73. When asked to reflect on his college education and list what he would have done differently, his reply was a quick and brief, "Not one thing."

Rust came to Glensville State College in 1969 to join several of his family and friends who were also attending classes. He received his bachelor of arts in business administration before attending the University of Tennessee where he received his master of public health in health care administration.

Since then he has not looked back, but instead looked forward with excitement and determination. He has become an accomplished administrator in the health care field, currently serving as the president of the Association of Kentucky

Hospitals and Health Systems (KHA), and as chairman and chief executive officer for the Kentucky Hospital Service Corporation. Responsible for the effective operation of a 131 member hospital group, his goals are oriented toward providing and improving the health status of the citizens of Kentucky as well as people worldwide.

Although Rust's successes are ultimately the result of his hard work, he is quick to point out that the foundation of many of his abilities came from the education and social interactions he experienced while a student at GSC. "I received an excellent education from Glensville State—a great value. The business program is top-notch, and the caring, fine professors provided me with the training and education I needed to succeed after graduation."

Rust fondly remembers his professors as persons who were truly interested and wanted to see their students succeed. "In addition to the information in my business courses, Virginia West (now retired) taught me good writing and reading skills, which have helped me immensely throughout my life."

As a student, Rust was a member of the Business Club and Theta Xi fraternity. "The Business Club strengthened the skills I learned in class, as well as my social skills," he said, "and in the fraternity, we developed a camaraderie. I learned social skills and built confidence and lasting friendships." Although Rust resides in an area of Kentucky which resembles West Virginia—rural, with a similar agricultural culture and similar population—he misses the West Virginia mountains, mostly in the fall of the year. "I have a camaraderie now with my fellow employees and people in my area, but nothing can match the full color of the mountains and trees of West Virginia."

After spending more than 20 years as a professional in the health care field, Rust has been most impressed with the vast improvements in medical technology.

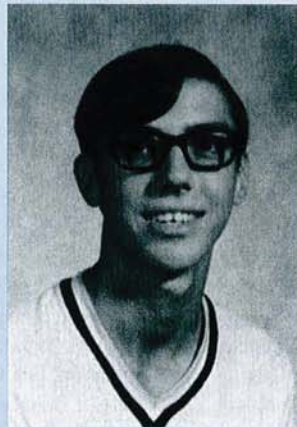

"There is a continual learning process. There are substantial changes approximately every six to seven months," he noted. Recently, a hand transplant was performed, and incredible research work is producing great discoveries in the areas of neurosurgery and gene therapy. "We are on the threshold of tremendous medical breakthroughs," he predicted.

In the early 1980s Rust held a position on the Glensville State College Alumni Executive Council, but then moved to Florida. When he moved to Kentucky, he made a decision to return to the board as treasurer. "I enjoy 'working' and endorsing Glensville State College outside the state of West Virginia," said Rust, "and of course I enjoy visiting with old friends and College peers." As treasurer of the Alumni Executive Council, he asks all alumni to support their alma mater. "We should all take pride in our College and work to continue to support Glensville State College's mission to provide quality education to central West Virginia." ◆

"I received an excellent education from Glensville State—a great value. The business program is top-notch, and the caring, fine professors provided me with the training and education I needed to succeed . . ."

Alumni Day

Update

Classes of '50 & '75 to be honored

The events listed in the Alumni Day article on page seven are correct; however, the classes being honored this year are the classes of 1950 and 1975, and the alumnus of the year for 2000 will be announced prior to the dinner.

There will be no book signing at the bookstore, but copies of books by GSC alumni and faculty will be on sale, including: Grammatically Speaking, by Yvonne King and Olga Pashkevish, Appalachian Ghost Stories, Haunted Valley, The Wayfaring Sin-Eater and More Appalachian Folk Stories by James Gay Jones, Hippies and Holiness, Dust on the Fiddle, and Doodle Bug Doodle Bug Your House is on Fire by Mack Samples, From Enemy to Ally by James F. Hilgenburg Jr., and Community Oriented Policing and Community Policing: Classical Readings by William Oliver.

The artwork of senior Elizabeth Riggs will be on display in the Fine Arts Gallery, and alumni and community members can meet the artist at the closing reception at 2 p.m. During the reception, Riggs will be happy to quote prices for alumni, family or pet portraits.

For a detailed schedule of Alumni Day activities, log onto the College's homepage www.glenville.edu then go to the Alumni Page by clicking on the Alumni button and then click on the News & Events. ♦

: This portrait of former GSC Business Manager Bill Osborne was painted by student Elizabeth Riggs. It will be displayed in the College's Business Offices.

Alumni Day Is April 29

College alumni and friends are invited back to campus to enjoy a full day of activities, fellowship, and fun with classmates and colleagues beginning at 9 a.m. and lasting into the evening hours.

The annual golf tournament begins at 9 a.m. as alumni and friends tee off for an 18-hole event. Players may enter individually or as a team; however, teams must have a combined handicap of at least 40. Lunch will be provided at the golf course club house and valuable prizes will be awarded to tournament winners.

The Country Store Museum opens at 9 a.m. for campus visitors and alumni, displaying historical and interesting artifacts and pieces from the local area. From 10 a.m. until noon, the Alumni Center holds an Open House to honor alumni, specifically the classes of 1948 and 1973. All alumni are invited to enjoy the morning with these reunion classes in the beautiful Victorian decor of the Alumni Center, where tours, food, and fellowship will all be shared.

At 1 p.m., the Bookstore opens to make GSC memorabilia and fashions such as sweatshirts, hats, and cups available. The Bookstore features the outstanding Artist's Rendition Series of items such as an attractive mirror topped with a colored painting of the Administration Building or commemorative paperweights. The Gold Medallion Series includes attractive desktop pen sets and clocks that proudly display the golden GSC seal. Yvonne King and Olga Pashkevish will autograph copies of their newly published text, Grammatically Speaking, from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m.

A guided campus tour begins at the Alumni Center at 2 p.m. and includes the Fine Arts Center, where visitors can view artwork of senior art major Regina Pethel and new state-of-the-art practice rooms, the Distance Learning Center, and the newly renovated auditorium in the Administration Building as well as other campus improvements.

At 6 p.m., the major event of the day, the annual Alumni Banquet, begins in the Heflin Center where alumni and friends can reminisce and celebrate in style. The menu includes a choice of Chicken Cordon Bleu or Swordfish Steak. After our elegant dinner, the GSC Alumni and Foundation Awards will be presented, and Alumnus of the Year, Jack Stalnaker, will be in the spotlight. The classes of 1948 and 1973 will be celebrated and recognized as well. Tickets are $15 per person.

To pre-register for the golf tournament and/or the alumni banquet, contact the Alumni Association at (304) 462-4122, alumni@glenville.edu, or the GSC Alumni Association, 200 High Street, Glenville, WV, 26351. ♦

Glenville State College Renames Basketball Gym to Honor Coach Jesse Lilly

The highlight during a triple-header day of basketball Jan. 29 was the renaming of Pioneer Gymnasium in honor of former basketball head coach Jesse R. Lilly Jr. prior to the men's game.

Lilly was a Beckley native who graduated from GSC in 1948, became GSC's basketball coach for one season in 1961-1962, served as football coach from 1962 through 1966, and then took over as permanent head coach of the basketball team in 1966. His teams won the WVIAC tourna-

Nominations for Alumni Awards and Alumni Executive Council Now Being Accepted

The Alumni Association is now accepting nominations for Alumni awards and positions on the Alumni Executive Council (Board). Until March 29, nominations are being accepted for: Alumnus of the Year, Alumnus Achievement, Community Service, Outstanding Teacher, Alumni Chapter, and Posthumous. The awards are to be presented at the Alumni Banquet on April 29.

The Alumnus of the Year Award is given to an individual who has made outstanding personal accomplishments. The Alumnus Achievement Award is given to an alumnus/nae who has been recognized by another group or individual for a similar award within the last three years. This award could also recognize individuals who have distinguished themselves in their chosen field of work. The Community Service Award is given to individuals, who may or may not be GSC alumni, who have distinguished themselves in community service over a period of years. The Outstanding Teacher Award is designed for public school teachers who have distinguished themselves during their beginning years, or perhaps mid-career, and have brought recognition to Glenville State College. The Alumni Chapter Award is to be presented to an individual or the chapter for contributions in support and development of the Glenville State College Alumni Association. The Posthumous Award is to be presented to the family of a distinguished, deceased GSC alumnus.

The Alumni Executive Council is also seeking alumni who are interested in serving on the Executive Council and helping promote Glenville State College. If you are or know someone who is interested, contact the Alumni Association. ♦

ment championship in 1970 and 1972 and he was named coach of the year in 1972. He also served as GSC's athletic director. In his 18 seasons, Lilly's teams compiled a 271-230 record. Lilly was noted for his competitive, but sportsman-like teams. He died on Sept. 30, 1999 at Stonewall Jackson Memorial Hospital in Weston.

Coach Lilly's 1969-1970 Conference Championship team was also honored during the evening. ♦

The Lilly Family received a commemorative plaque from Dr. Powell during renaming ceremonies.

A Community of Learners

GSC's Science and Mathematics Division

by BJ Woods '00

The Science and Mathematics Division at Glenville State College has a long-standing reputation for preparing students as talented, innovative science teachers for West Virginia's 5-12 grade science classes.

The division also has a rich tradition of preparing students for post-graduate work as researchers and physicians.

John P. Shock, M.D., earned his A.S. at GSC in 1955, went on to receive his bachelor's degree at West Point, attended the Duke University School of Medicine and completed an ophthalmology residency at Walter Reed Army Medical Center. He holds three patents for surgical instruments he designed and is currently chairman of the Department of Ophthalmology at the University of Arkansas Medical School and director of the Jones Eye Institute, and he recently received UAMS

College of Medicine's Distinguished Service Award. Dr. Shock, GSC's 1982 Alumnus of the Year, says that of all the educational experience he has had, "I never had teachers as dedicated as I had at Glenville."

In the past few years, an increasing number of GSC students have gone on to successful post-graduate work and productive careers in the private sector, and they too have begun receiving recognition for their accomplishments.

"Glenville State students are hard workers," says Science and Math Division Chair Mike Caulfield, Ph.D., "and the ones who succeed are willing to overcome obstacles to achieve their goals." The division gives support and recognition to deserving students, further encouraging their success.

During the past four years more than ten GSC graduates have passed the rigorous requirements to gain entrance into the challenging pharmacy program at West Virginia University.

Caulfield cites Marilyn Dawn Lancaster '98 as an example of the GSC Pioneer spirit. She is a working mother with twin boys, which is challenge enough, who is also keeping her grades up while in Pharmacy School.

Lancaster was named GSC's Junior Chemist for 1996, received the Dr. Mary Jo Pribble Award for outstanding work in chemistry, and was the outstanding graduate for 1998.

Carrie Kirkpatrick '98 went straight into the workforce and runs the testing lab for Dowell Schlumberger in Beckley. Chad Lancaster '99 is currently employed by the West Virginia State Police at the forensics laboratory in Charleston. Hillary Miller '97 is currently enrolled in the West Virginia School of Osteopathic Medicine; Jay Kerns '99 is in Bowling Green University's graduate statistical program; and Keri Kennedy '98 is pursuing graduate studies at WVU.

Wendy Batson '99 is currently teaching in Virginia. Her GSC math education degree was so sought after that she had three teaching job offers prior to graduation.

David C. Tingler '99, an honors graduate and student of the year, is currently attending the WVU School of Medicine. He was named GSC's Junior Chemist for 1998 and received the Pribble Award for outstanding work in chemistry. Tingler was accepted into all three of the state's medical schools. After earning his M.D., Tingler plans to return home to Huttonsville to set up practice, perhaps with friend Jeff Lancaster '99 who is also attending the WVU School of Medicine. Lancaster was also an honors graduate and was accepted into the state's three medical schools and the WVU Dental School.

The Science and Mathematics Division takes great pride in each student's success and, looking at the record, the division has many reasons to be proud. ♦

Faculty Dedication Helps Build Student Success

Innovative GSC professors have learned that it takes extra effort to build a community of learners, but the reward is seeing students succeed.

With a grant from the West Virginia Department of Education, mathematics professors Dave and Holly Kennedy developed a course and lab manuals showing that math is more than numbers on a piece of paper, and how applied mathematics is used in our everyday lives. Students learn not only to use math; they learn why they are learning math, seeing the mathematics in "action."

In the fall of 1998, astronomy professor Ralph Bame completed a weather station which allows students to predict incoming weather and to give this information to the local television station in Weston.

Chemistry professor James G. Goll, Ph.D., forms personal relationships and works with students to allow them to reach their potential and gain recognition. In 1997, Goll and student BJ Woods co-authored a paper which was presented at the National American Chemical Society meeting in Las Vegas and later published in the April 1999 edition of the Journal of Chemical Education. Professor Goll is currently working with Woods and fellow student William Kelley researching the insertion of early transitional metals into electron deficient porphyrins and this work will be presented at the Spring 2000 National Meeting of the American Chemical Society in San Francisco.

Nursing professor Theresa Cowan notes that GSC's nursing program is in consortium with West Virginia University's nursing program, one of the more rigorous ones in the state. GSC nursing students are now working at a nursing home in Glenville as well as at Stonewall Jackson Hospital in Weston. Each year at least 10 students graduate from the program and go straight into the workforce with numerous job offers from various West Virginia hospitals.

In the summer of 1997, biology professor Peggy Romeo took three students, Mandy Flint '98, Tayna Mathess '99, and Carrie Kirkpatrick '99, to Costa Rica to gain first-hand knowledge of the rainforest and the local culture. They attended lectures at the University of Costa Rica and performed field research while based at a biological station in La Selva. ♦

Fondly referred to by many as the "lighthouse on the hill," Glensville State College is currently undergoing an extensive physical transformation. Over the past year, heavy equipment and skilled tradesmen have been upgrading and remodeling our campus image—brightening the lighthouse.

The numerous construction projects across campus have been planned and supervised by Robert DuBray, GSC physical plant director. After joining the GSC community in November 1998, DuBray spent three months familiarizing himself with the 15 major buildings and 300 acres of the main campus. "One important facet of this campus is the varying ages of our buildings," said DuBray, pointing out the nearly 100 year difference between the oldest and the newest buildings.

Last May, DuBray and his staff initiated projects to bring all campus buildings up to speed. "We have identified the problems," said DuBray, "and Plan. "There is an ongoing effort to bring all buildings on campus into ADA compliance," said DuBray. Other aspects considered included safety, efficiency, technological requirements, and overall aesthetics. The goal of our "construction community" is to have all renovations, construction and reconstruction completed within three years. According to DuBray, this massive make-over is "proceeding ahead of schedule."

THE LITTLE THINGS

One touch made to brighten campus and aid new students and visitors was the addition of signs identifying each building. Banners sporting the four words Tradition, Innovation, Leadership, and Community, often hang across campus in deep-blue pride. Trees have been pruned and the campus grounds have been groomed, but the major campus projects are much more extensive.

upgraded, with 16 new tables paired with 31 chairs.

The building is now on the cutting edge of technology with the addition of the Computer Technology Lab. The Cisco Networking Academy Program is a highly successful alliance between Cisco Systems, education, business, government and community organizations. Students learn to design, build, and maintain computer networks, all via the Internet in a setting known as "e-learning."

The high-quality work by GSC's tradesmen should be a source of pride for all. Total cost for the renovation, supplies and technical equipment equaled $160,000, saving over a half million dollars if outside labor had been used.

For the first time in 60 years, the President's Office was remodeled.

SECURING THE ROOFTOPS

One of the largest projects of the three-year renovation plan covers, literally, the roofs of the Administration Building and Louis Bennett

Hall. Both buildings are now topped with Metal Pan Roof Systems, which replaced the slate shingles which had served well for decades. Unfortunately, many shingles were damaged, but crews managed to save over 1,000 pieces which have been set aside for future campus art projects. The new roofs were installed by Parson and Lusk Construction of Beckley at a cost of $557,000.

Also a four-story elevator was added to the Science Hall on the Heflin Center side. All floors of the building are now accessible. Both the elevator and bridge were built by High Point Construction of Buckhannon at a cost of $452,000.

THE PHYSICAL EDUCATION BUILDING: 48 years old

The Physical Education Building was suffering a damaging leak on the second floor. GSC Physical Plant Staff repaired the leak and installed new windows on the second floor to prevent Hall, but also for the Heflin Student Center. Steam is pumped beneath Linn Street to be circulated through the Student Center. New pumps were added to the boilers to help maintain reasonable temperatures for both buildings.

ROBERT F. KIDD LIBRARY: 34 years old

The library was not in desperate need for any repair, but was upgraded and retrofitted through a Performance Contract, the first ever completed in West Virginia. Performance Contracting allows schools to make significant upgrades for optimum facility performance with projects which are guaranteed to pay for themselves over time through energy, operational, and maintenance cost savings. Facets of this contract included a new roof, motion/heat sensor lighting, new heating, air conditioning and ventilation. These improvements will bring an immediate return on the investment in the form of savings which will result from the need of fewer repairs, maintenance and supplies, and outside services. The savings generated will pay for this project within ten years.

THE SCIENCE HALL: 56 years old

Of all the buildings on campus, the Science Hall was in the worst condition. Of immediate concern and, therefore, the first renovation project on campus, were the Science Hall windows. The glazing, which holds the glass of the window in the frame,

THE FIELD HOUSE

The Field House was in need of some attention. New flooring was installed throughout the building by DuBray himself, who spent "nine Saturdays" to get the work done. Also, the interior and exterior of the Field House were painted thanks to a gift from I. L. (Ike) Morris, who was selected as the Alumni Association's Community Service Award winner for 1999.

THE PRESIDENT'S HOUSE: 72 years old

Unoccupied for over 23 years, the President's House needed upgrading for incoming President Powell and his family. The staff accepted the challenge, which had an extremely tight two-month deadline, and the work was completed the day that Dr. Powell and his family arrived on campus.

As a result of a donation by General Vorley Rexroad, a commemorative President's Wall has been added along the sidewalk in front of the President's home. According to General Rexroad's wishes for a tribute to former college presidents, plaques honoring each president will be added on the front. The other side of the wall will honor donors who have contributed significant endowments to the College. To complete the president's wall the Foundation is seeking any information on past GSC Presidents J.P. Lazear (1881-1882) and Rev. M.D. Helmick (1892-1895). Please contact the Foundation at (304) 462-4125 if you can help in our search.

Also, the Alumni Patio, formerly behind the Alumni House, is being moved to the side yard of the President's House for accessibility and visibility. The patio contains special bricks engraved with the names of donors and friends of the College.

This "corrective maintenance" phase for the main campus is making the "lighthouse on the hill" a beacon for the future of central West Virginia. Our campus is rising to the challenges of the new millennium and our light will now shine brighter, farther and more efficiently. The Physical Plant Staff has stepped up fearlessly to make our campus safer and more attractive. What does DuBray and his staff intend to do when the renovations are complete? "We will continue all programs and associated improvements and will implement scheduled maintenance programs to ensure all systems and buildings work properly and efficiently," said DuBray. "This is my mission." ♦

Priority Projects

MINERAL ROAD STUDENT HOUSING

Many of our campus buildings have been protected by a

"Grandfather Clause" when it came to considerations of building code compliance. However, once any construction work is begun on one of these buildings, the Grandfather Clause no longer applies. For one major building on campus, Louis Bennett Hall (LBH), this presents a major problem.

According to Bob DuBray, LBH, built in 1937, is a "code nightmare." The task and cost of bringing LBH into compliance is monstrous, requiring extensive and immediate plumbing, electrical and HVAC repairs and asbestos abatement. No amount of surface renovation can bring this pre-World War II era facility up to acceptable standards for continued use as a residence hall. In lieu of renovating this building, the College is asking the state legislature for funding to construct ten townhouse complexes, each able to house 16 students, on existing College property on Mineral Road.

THE HEFLIN STUDENT CENTER: 39 years old

The Student Center needs substantial renovation and construction to meet the contemporary needs of our students. The 1990 North Central Accreditation report urged the College to take action to provide more appropriate space for student dining and extracurricular activities. The College has proposed to completely renovate the building using the existing structure, which would obviously be less expensive than building a new structure. ♦ hall, large recital hall, cathedral, sports arena, and system. Imagine a room which encourages students to practice!

Four more practice rooms have already been ordered, and to help pay for the much needed rooms, the GSC Foundation has developed the "Spot Light" program, where those who donate funds for the practice rooms will be recognized with name plates to be installed on the seats in the Fine Arts Auditorium. Donors can name the seat for themselves, or in honor or memory of someone special. The nameplate will remain for one calendar year, with the option to renew annually. Your tax deductible gift of $100 or more will allow GSC to continue to provide a quality education for our students.

"The new practice room has been a highlight and a welcome addition to the Fine Arts Center and the Music Department. We are grateful to the GSC Foundation for their contribution to the purchase of this first of eleven rooms. The completion of this project is critical to the continued mission of our program," stated John McKinney, chair of the Division of Fine Arts.

To find out more about how you can participate in the "Spot Light" program, contact the GSC Foundation, (304) 462-4125 or e-mail ehamrick@glenville.edu. ♦

The rooms are used in musical settings worldwide, including rooms in Carnegie Mellon University, University of Colorado, the San Francisco Opera House, Greenestreet Films, and HBO Studios. One room has already been installed on the main floor of the Fine Arts Center. The practice room has been a hit with the students from day one because these rooms allow musicians, teachers, and students to switch the acoustics of their practice space as easily as changing the channel on a television! Students can go from the acoustic response of a baroque concert hall to that of a 10,000 seat arena or outdoor environment with the touch of a button. Ten preset acoustical environments are included: small, medium and large auditorium, practice room, baroque room, medium recital

RESA provides the training in areas like first aid and first responder programs for school system employees, and may be contracted out by industries to provide employee training in areas like hazardous material handling.

The state public service training program is housed in RESA V, he said, and this evening's program just gives an overview of its functions.

On The Road

Beginning this past fall, a team of top administrators, led by President Powell, has been making presentations to regional alumni chapters and friends of the College to inform them about GSC's new initiatives. They traveled to Clay, Nicholas, Lewis, Wood and Roane counties, also making stops in Huntington and Charleston. In addition to meetings with alumni and friends, members also stopped to visit area high school students and school boards. More visits and receptions are planned with sites and dates to be announced through invitations and in area newspapers. All alumni and friends of the College are invited to these presentations.

Dennis Fitzpatrick (l) and Dr. Powell (r) hear feedback on campus initiatives from John E. Law.

While visiting Clay County in September, Dr. Powell visited Clay County High School to answer questions students may have about college and choices for choosing a college to best fit their needs. After the discussion, Dr. Powell and Mr. Fitzpatrick attended a Board of Education meeting to discuss what GSC can do for future college students of Clay County.

While in Lewis County, officials toured the new Peterson-Central Elementary School, and met with Lewis County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Joseph Mace. Later that day, approximately 30 GSC alumni, staff and friends of the college attended reception activities in the school cafeteria and auditorium. During a presentation at the auditorium, Dr. Powell related the four main points the college is emphasizing: tradition, innovation, leadership and community.

Roane County High School was also visited, where Dr. Powell spent the afternoon talking to juniors and seniors about the importance of a college education. This year, the school began offering several evening classes at Roane County High School via a new distance learning center. "We have over $100,000 of high tech equipment in that classroom," said Powell. "It really is state of the art."

That night, he met with local alumni and other community members in an informal reception at the school. Dr. Powell spoke with alumni and friends and asked them to begin sharing the news about Glenville State College. "We consider Roane County very much part of our home and very much part of our mission," Dr Powell said.

"It is absolutely critical to do more outreach in the community and listen and learn the needs of our constituents," said Powell following his visits.

Meetings and visits in Charleston, Huntington and Nicholas County also were host to similar relaxed receptions and visits. More visits and receptions are planned. All alumni and friends of the college are invited to meet with College community members and receive answers to their questions. ♦

Preparing to greet alumni are Faculty Senate President John McKinney, Vice President for Enrollment Services Debbie Simon, Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs Joe Evans, and Athletic Director Tim Carney.

New Traditions for a New Beginning

This past fall, Glenville State College began a new tradition with a unique approach to student orientation. On August 15, faculty and staff helped incoming freshman move into the residence halls.

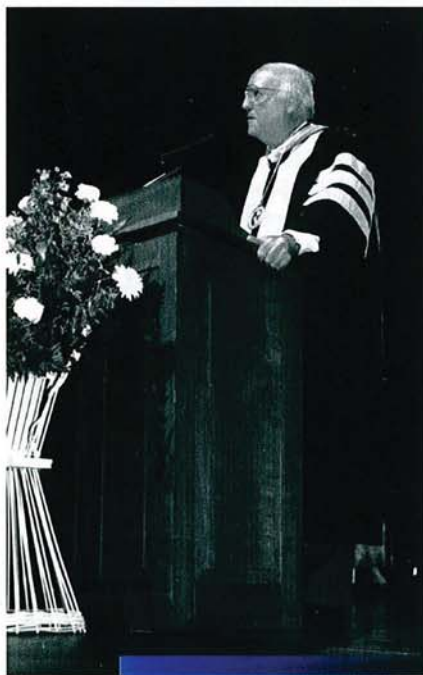

Later that day, First Lady Irene Powell hosted a special parents' informational meeting, providing information ranging from who to contact in case of an emergency to helping students manage personal finances. During three information-rich days, students were given college "survival skills" training.

On August 18, GSC held the first annual Convocation ceremony, where freshmen heard keynote speaker Chancellor Clifford Trump

...speak to the value of their upcoming education experiences. The freshman class then made an oath of academic excellence, voicing their support of freedom of speech, academic integrity and diversity.

Following convocation, a community picnic and barbeque were held with WBRB radio broadcasting live from campus. Area churches set up tables and provided desserts and treats to the class of '03 and the campus community. ♦

Dr. Clifford Trump, Chancellor of the State College System of West Virginia spoke to the freshman class. "If this institution is to deliver on its promise to educate, you may well be able to research and document, but more than that, you will be an independent thinker. You think and you are not afraid to believe. You are able to drive your stake into the ground and say, without apology or equivocation, 'This is my belief and it is here that I will stand.'"

Honorary Faculty Marshals who led the Convocation procession were: Wayne de Rosset, Harry Rich, Cheryl McKinney, James Meads, Marty Armentrout, Rick Sypolt, Gary Gillespie.

OATH OF ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE

As a member of the Glenville State College community I dedicate myself to the pursuit of intellectual, cultural, personal, and social growth. To show this commitment I affirm the following:

Freedom of Speech

I will respect the right of others to express themselves as guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States.

Civil and Human Rights

I pledge to protect the civil and human rights of my fellow students, the faculty, staff and administrators, and all members of our College community.

Cultivation of Character

I pledge that I will continue to develop virtues such as courage, compassion, humility, honesty, and loyalty.

Academic Integrity

I will dedicate myself to the ongoing pursuit of knowledge and truth.

Diversity

I will respect the integrity of each person and value individuals for their contributions, which enrich our community.

Social Responsibility

I will contribute to the Glenville State College community and leave our College a better place for my having been here.

Consideration of Others

I will demonstrate concern for the welfare of others and I will respect the dignity of all persons.

I commit myself to these principles on this 18th day of August 1999.
